Social Media Campaign — 24 Ready-to-Adapt Posts

Brand voice: warm, calm, beginner-friendly. CTA options: save this, tell us in comments, visit the checklist page, or sign up. Avoid medical claims and never suggest the checklist guarantees skin outcomes.

Week 1 — Awareness and simple starts

Post 1 — Brand introduction (static)

Caption: Meet Bloom & Bare A little corner for keeping skincare and self-care simple. We're here for small habits, clear information, and routines that fit real life. What does “simple self-care” mean to you?
Creative: botanical line art on a cream background. CTA: Tell us below.

Post 2 — Beginner myth (carousel)

Caption: Myth: a good routine has to be complicated. Reality: the best starting point is one you understand and can realistically follow. Save this reminder for later.
Slides: 1) Skincare can feel overwhelming 2) Start with the basics 3) Add changes thoughtfully 4) Ask a qualified professional about persistent concerns.
CTA: Save this post.

Post 3 — Tiny habit (reel)

Caption: A tiny reset: put your everyday essentials where you'll remember them, choose a realistic time, and keep the first step small. Progress doesn't need to look perfect.
Creative: 3 quick scenes, soft natural light. CTA: Which habit helps you stay consistent?

Post 4 — Checklist preview (static)

Caption: Want a calmer starting point? Our free 7-Day Simple Skincare Checklist is designed to help you organize small habits, one day at a time.
Creative: checklist mockup. CTA: Get the free checklist via the link in bio.

Post 5 — Community question (story poll)

Caption: What feels hardest about building a routine?
Poll options: Knowing where to start / Staying consistent.
Follow-up: Thanks for sharing. We'll use your answers to plan helpful beginner content.

Post 6 — Self-care reminder (graphic)

Caption: A reminder for today: your routine should support you, not become another source of pressure. Keep it flexible and make it your own.
CTA: Send this to someone who needs a gentle reminder.

Week 2 — Education and trust

Post 7 — Routine planning (carousel)

Caption: Before adding another step, pause and ask: What is this for? Do I understand how to use it? Is this change manageable? Thoughtful choices beat collecting steps.
Slides: purpose / instructions / consistency / seek professional guidance for concerns.
CTA: Save the questions.

Post 8 — FAQ: the checklist (reel)

Caption: What's in the free checklist? A simple seven-day structure, small prompts, and space to make the routine fit your life. It isn't medical advice or a promise of results—just a practical organizer.
CTA: Get your copy from the link in bio.

Post 9 — Ingredient-label literacy (carousel)

Caption: Labels can be confusing. Read the product directions, introduce new products carefully, and stop using anything that causes a concerning reaction. For ongoing skin issues, speak with a qualified healthcare professional.
CTA: What label term would you like explained next?

Post 10 — Behind the brand (static)

Caption: Why Bloom & Bare? We believe helpful information can be calm, clear, and welcoming. No pressure to do everything at once—just a better starting point.
Creative: mood board and botanical shapes. CTA: Follow for more simple guides.

Post 11 — Story quiz

Question: What's a realistic first goal when building a new habit?
Options: Change everything at once / Start with one manageable step.
Answer: Start with one manageable step. Follow-up: Small steps are easier to review and adjust.

Post 12 — Saveable mini checklist (carousel)

Caption: Save this mini reset: 1) choose a realistic time, 2) keep essentials easy to find, 3) follow product directions, 4) notice how your routine fits your day, 5) adjust when needed.
CTA: Save for your next reset.

Week 3 — Engagement and consideration

Post 13 — Routine friction (question post)

Caption: What gets in the way of consistency: time, remembering, too much information, or something else? No judgement—your answers help us make more useful content.
CTA: Comment with one word.

Post 14 — One-minute reset (reel)

Caption: Take one minute to reset your space: clear a small surface, put essentials together, and decide when you'll use them. A supportive setup can make a habit easier to remember.
CTA: Try it and tell us how it felt.

Post 15 — FAQ: beginner friendly (static)

Caption: New to skincare? You don't need to know every ingredient or trend before you begin. Read directions, keep changes manageable, and get professional advice for persistent or worrying concerns.
CTA: Drop a beginner question.

Post 16 — Checklist reminder (story)

Caption: Have you downloaded the 7-Day Simple Skincare Checklist yet? It's a gentle organizer—not a strict rulebook.
Sticker: Link to landing page. CTA: Get the checklist.

Post 17 — Content preference poll

Caption: What should we make next?
Poll: Simple routine explainers / Self-care habit reminders.
CTA: Vote in the story.

Post 18 — Community appreciation (static)

Caption: Thank you for making space for a kinder, clearer conversation about self-care. We read your questions and use them to shape future guides.
CTA: What should we answer next?

Week 4 — Conversion and retention

Post 19 — Checklist benefits (carousel)

Caption: A little structure can help you get started. The free checklist gives you a seven-day framework, simple prompts, and room to adapt it to your own schedule.
Slides: easy starting point / one day at a time / flexible prompts / sign-up.
CTA: Get the free checklist.

Post 20 — Objection: “I won't stick to it” (reel)

Caption: You don't have to do everything perfectly. Treat the checklist as a guide, not a test. If a day gets busy, simply return when you're ready.
CTA: Save this for a busy week.

Post 21 — What we believe (graphic)

Caption: Clear information over hype. Flexible habits over pressure. Helpful reminders over perfection. That's the kind of self-care space we're building.
CTA: Follow if this feels right for you.

Post 22 — Landing page walkthrough (reel)

Caption: Here's how to get the free checklist: visit the page, enter your email in the form, and—once the real email delivery system is connected—receive the guide in your inbox.
Note: Do not imply live delivery until configured. CTA: Visit the checklist page.

Post 23 — Feedback prompt (story)

Caption: If you used our checklist, what would make it more useful?
Question sticker: Share one suggestion.
CTA: Send feedback.

Post 24 — Month wrap-up (carousel)

Caption: This month, we focused on making skincare information feel a little more manageable. Thanks for reading, saving, voting, and asking thoughtful questions. More practical guides are on the way.
CTA: Follow along and share a topic request.

Publishing notes

- Publish six times per week; rotate formats and review performance weekly.
- Adapt dimensions for each platform and include alt text/captions.
- Respond respectfully to comments; don't diagnose conditions or provide individual medical advice.
- Track reach, saves, shares, meaningful comments, link clicks, landing-page views, and signups.